Questions

1. What kind of constitution does God's ultimate woman show to us? Why is it important for her to be virtuous in her upstanding behavior, principled in her good words, restrained over her impulsive behavior, and pure in her Biblical doctrine?
2. What does it mean that God's ultimate woman is loving towards her children and husband? What do you think that kind of caring looks like practically?
3. What is the character described for God's ultimate woman under the third point of the outline? Which of those characteristics do you think are most important?
